Blurb:

When is an egg not an egg?

Everyone knows that eggs have pointy tops and big bottoms – but what happens when an upside down egg turns up? Will this odd egg ever be accepted by the others?

A laugh out loud story celebrating acceptance by the award winning and best selling duo, Sue Hendra and Paul Linnet

No Outsiders links: being different, being accepted.

There are 5 worksheets here, aimed at younger children (though children of all ages will love this brilliant story and enjoy the follow up activities)

No Outsiders home learning 1

Egg by Sue Hendra and Paul Linnett

There are three different eggs in this story. Can you draw them and show how they are different?

A large, empty rectangular box with a thin black border, intended for drawing the first of the three different eggs mentioned in the text.A large, empty rectangular box with a thin black border, intended for drawing the second of the three different eggs mentioned in the text.A large, empty rectangular box with a thin black border, intended for drawing the third of the three different eggs mentioned in the text.

The eggs in the story have the same pattern using two lines and a zig zag. Shall we give the eggs different patterns to choose from? Use the egg shapes below to design your own egg patterns so that all the eggs know they don't have to look the same.

No Outsiders home learning 4

Egg by Sue Hendra and Paul Linnett

This brilliant book is all about eggs.... But could it be about something else? How about bananas? Look at the page where we first meet the eggs

Draw your own version using bananas. You will need to draw eyes and arms and legs on each banana and show the last banana looking a bit different.

Banana	Banana	Banana	Banana	Banana	Banana	BANANA!
--------	--------	--------	--------	--------	--------	---------

Can you think of a different fruit or vegetable to use? Draw and label your own picture of 7 fruits or vegetables here, with the last one looking different.

No Outsiders home learning 5

Egg by Sue Hendra and Paul Linnett

The story ends with the eggs learning to accept the different egg. We see the eggs holding hands and making sure the different egg is welcome. No one is left out, there are no outsiders!

Draw a picture using your chosen fruit or vegetable from worksheet 4, this time show the different fruit or vegetable is not an outsider. Think how you can show that.
